Everything intended by the creator for human nourishment was once itself alive. The Reverend L.F. Sheen offers a $1000.00 reward for evidence that will be accepted by any Christian biochemist proving any of these statements: (1) Sodium Fluoride will prevent decay of human teeth; (2) Sodium Fluoride is not poisonous in small amounts; and (3) The moon is made of green cheese. The 19 July 1954 issue of NEWSWEEK quotes GOETHE as saying "There is nothing more frightful than IGNORANCE in action." It is quite possible, in its broad interpretation, that this statement is correct, but in a practical sense I consider MALICE in action even more frightful. It is with this thought in mind that I wish to add my voice to the constantly increasing clamor of protest against the completely devilish and un-American plot to FLUORIDATE THE WATER of American cities. In order to avoid the confusion that I find even in excellent articles against this vile Communist plan, let me define the terms as I see them. These definitions may not currently be used in the language of science, but I think they should be the basis of a very necessary distinction. To me, FLUORINE is the chemical as found in nature, always in combination with calcium. FLUORIDE is the raw synthetic chemical WITHOUT the protective calcium which the CREATOR of the Universe has so mercifully set as a guard over this violent element. To me, the "N" in fluorine signifies "NATURE." The "D" in fluoriDe signifies "DEATH." This makes the distinction easy to remember. This short article originally appeared in the GENESO ILLINOIS REPUBLIC on 27 May 1954. It was written at the request of hundreds of citizens who were outraged by the injection of sodium fluoride into the drinking water of this city, without their permission, or even knowledge. Regardless of the intrinsic merits of the program, we maintain that the procedure was illegal, immoral, and irresponsible. It was the typical procedure of TOTALITARIAN NATIONS, past and present. It violates everything legal and moral, in the principles upon which the United States of America were established, and until recent years, have fairly well succeeded in securing the blessings of liberty to this nation. In writing this article, I do not presume to speak for the Catholic Church, but simply as an American citizen, who is a priest, and who is therefore, by nature and by training, an uncompromising lover of Truth, and hater of falsehood. I regard this utterly vicious effort to POISON THE WATER SUPPLY of American cities as a crime that cries to Heaven for vengeance, and I hereby place my name on the list of those who do so cry. FLUORIDATION of city water supplies did not originate with doctors or dentists, but with politicians and business men. How the medical and dental professions became fouled up with this dirty business is another story. There are some 80,000 men in America who boast the degree of M.D. To most of us laymen, this means Medical Doctor. Also, Merciful Deliverer, and Man of Distinction. But as one small voice, I would take this opportunity to ware about 79,500 of these men that if they persist in giving the tremendous weight of their science and personal honor to the nefarious business of poisoning American citizens, their degree way yet come to signify "Merchant of Disease," Moral Degenerate" -- even "Mental Defective." To us laymen, the American Medical Association has ceased to be either Medical or American. If this be true, then the only word left is "Association," and that too should be dissolved. Honest, God-fearing Doctors have always been held in great respect and affection by the American people, but what now, if they have sold their honor for a mess of poisoned pottage? WHAT DO WE MEAN BY THE TERM "FLUORIDATION OF WATER"? We mean the injection into the City water supplies of SODIUM FLUORIDE (or a variation) for the alleged purpose of helping to prevent cavities in the teeth of very young children. I would give the arguments of the FLUORIDATORS, but I have never found one

To whomever is reading this:

Is there an Editor? Is there a Voo Doo? I noticed that an issue had not come out last term, and I was sorely disappointed. Voo Doo is one of the few things in life that can bring a smile to my old and jaded visage. For years now I have awaited the turning of the seasons, as it heralded the coming of the prophetic words of the unwashed masses at M.I.T. What the sons and daughters of Technology know, only the few faithful are granted glimpses of. Through the looking glass of your fine magazine, you leak the truth about science to the common man, not letting it be confined to the ivory towers of academia. What have we done to forsake thee, such that we were not blessed with Voo Doo last term.

Yours Sincerely,

I am writing to you because Nightline is only available during the evening hours, and I am feeling quite insane right now. Can you help me, I can't seem to remember how my toes work right now. You have a cat. I have a cat. I can't remember how my cat works either. Do you keep yours in tinfoil..? I find it smells less that way. And the ice cream doesn't get tainted as well. Tinfoil is helpful, but i'm not so crazy as to think the government is reading my brain waves. I know better and wear it over my cock. They are trying to make us sterile so that only super killing machine humans reproduce. Then we will win the war on terror and drugs and drugged up terrorists. But I ask you, will it be worth it? Aren't my sperm entitled to something, too? They use the radio. So I only watch TV, but with the sound off, because that's sort of like radio too. You can still hear them talking with the sound off. Its an emergency backup thing, in case the Mormons take away sound when the rapture happens. Abraham Lincoln was right to not be Mormon. He also made it so the Southerner's didn't have to own slaves anymore. Thats why bell bottoms were invented. And if we didn't have disco, the freeing of slaves wouldn't have worked so well. But its all going to China in the end anyways. So we need to stay true to the real Faith, and I think you agree with me on this one. You always understand, and someday they will all understand.

You hypocrites think only you should have the right to own guns and let the little people use sticks and try to stop you. Dear Editor,

I was wondering if you would be so kind as to print the following letter in your magazine. I send out monthly Institute updates via email, but we all know that those are just bullshit propaganda, and I have no intent of following through on any of the administrative mumbo jumbo I say in them. And that's if you can actually tell what the hell I'm actually saying. But, I've been having these constant guilt pangs about fucking the Institute over on a daily basis without telling anyone about it. that would hold up under the examination of and by a scientific or mental microscope. They have no proofs beyond their own torrents of words and their own statistics. What they say is "Science" and all objections are "Drivel." Installations in the victim cities and always made in secret, which means in the dark, so far as the light of either science or human rights are concerned. The procedure alone is enough to damn the plan completely in the minds of intelligent American people. This is the only weapon we citizens have or need: the use of REASON. I appeal to the common sense of the average man, since a man who will not think is not worth fighting for anyway. Hence, armed with the use of reason, aided by Faith in God who created the Universe, which includes Chemistry and Medicine, I wish to go on record as CONDEMNING FLUORIDATION UNEQUIVOCALLY. A few of my reasons are contained in the following paragraphs. FLUORIDATORS ALLEGE: That Sodium Fluoride, injected into the water supply, will help prevent cavities in the teeth of children under 10 years. FLUORIDATORS ALLEGE: That Sodium Fluoride, an acknowledged poison in itself, is NOT POISONOUS in small amounts, but helpful to teeth Speaking now for people who have written to me from all over the United States, and from Alaska, I deny both statements absolutely. SODIUM FLUORIDE is a violent, metallic, inorganic synthetic POISON, and no human power or human flood of words can change it. It is sufficient to consider the word "INORGANIC." By that we mean that it does not belong in an organ of the human body. For some six thousand years of human history, the original plan of Almighty God, Who designed and created the human race, has been accepted and practiced with reasonable success. The Failure was not His. Namely: the elements of food for the human body have always been either a plan or an animal, never a raw chemical. Food plans grow in the fertile soil. We, and animals, may eat the plans and maintain health. We also eat the animals. But we NEVER EAT THE SOIL! This includes everything taken from it. Salt is a condiment, not an essential food. Certain minerals are absolutely essential to human life. BUT they must be processed by a plant before they can become a functioning part of the human body. This is also true of animal life. And no man will dare question the Wisdom of the Almighty if he values his soul. "MAN" himself IS Divine Revelation, and so is his food. A grain of wheat or rice is Divine Revelation and a person who interprets Divine Wisdom through a flour mill that eliminates almost all vitamins and minerals, and embalms the residue, indicates that he is wiser than his CRE-

ATOR! Yet, this is our situation today. About 98 people of every 100 in America today are trying to keep alive on refined, embalmed foods in the cereal line. They would be better off if they ate no bread whatsoever! The same is true of refined sugar and rice. Fortunately, cattle and hogs cannot survive on refined foods, and humans get some true nourishment by eating cattle and hogs which are Divinely protected by INSTINCT! Animals, wild and domestic, seem to have very little tooth trouble! "Clean as a hound's tooth" has become axiomatic. Lions and tigers are feared because of their excellent incisors! That assertion might be safely made in areas where people cannot read. I have learned to read, and I have abundant material from Universities in the Southwestern States, and the evidence is entirely against this insane theses. The most forceful document I have ever read is a letter from Dr George W Heard, D.D.S., a practicing dentist in Hereford, Texas. The letter is reprinted elsewhere. His city has an abundance supply of fluorine in its water, and yet the children have about the same incidence of dental decay as those in other cities which do not have any at all. They also have ORGANIC fluorine in the foods grown in that area, but even this DOES NOT PREVENT DECAY! Moreover, there is ample evidence that FLUORINE is NOT an essential element of the human body under any circumstance. THE TECH

VooDoo attacked

To the Editor:

In order to arouse interest in their dubious publication, the staff of VooDoo displayed a "poster" in Building 2 which, I feel, was a gross and flagrant violation of the accepted and established values of morality and decency that so few of us at MIT are willing to defend.

Sophistical allusions to obscenity and deprecating comments on MIT's coeds have no place in such a proper and decent institution as MIT. The administration's silence and laxity in matters of this nature can neither be understood nor condoned by any responsible individual.

Surely in these days of constant threats to the American way of life, from the atheistic, materialistic hedonism of the East and the moral and spiritual decay of the affluent countries of the West, a new crusade for morality and decency must be forthcoming if we are to insure the high and lofty ideals which so few of us live by.

I protest the actions of VooDoo whose appeal to prurient and degrading emotions is overtly clear to those of us with clean minds and disciplined bodies. I sincerely pray that action is taken to eliminate this virulent moral cancer that festers deep in the bosom of the MIT community.

AND--CHRIST ON THE CROSS!-- A CONTEST

One of the many fine features of The Voo Doo Magazine is that it has been, throughout all of its storied history, staffed by jackasses.

To wit, there was the Building 2 incident of 1963, which offended the delicate sensibilities of not only R. S. Bernstein, but also J. A. Bernstein--generally seen as the more level-headed of the pair, less prone to sudden rages and fits of righteousness. We direct your attention to the Tech article at left.

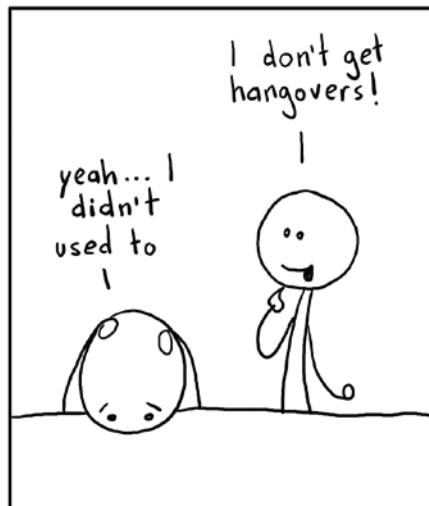

Sadly, the poster itself has been lost to the ages. But we take this opportunity to invite you, dear readers, to create your own poster of "sophistical allusions to obscenity and deprecating comments on MIT's coeds." And don't forget the appeals to prurient and degrading emotions. Bring entries to our office in Walker Memorial, 50-309.

A good time to come by would probably be during our office hours, Fridays 6 - 7 PM. Winner gets a spanking new pony.

TRUE TALES OF LOVE AND VENEREAL DISEASE FROM YOUR LOYAL AND SEPTIC VOO DOO STAPHERS

I confess. I met him on OKCupid.com. I realize there are many things that are intrinsically wrong with this—the first one being that it clearly labels me as someone who is socially and physically incapable of attracting a man in real life. The second one is that OKCupid seems to be populated exclusively by bulimic Twilight fangirls and guys who think that drawing anime furies and posting them to deviantart.com is “their art”. Oh, and inexplicable 40 year old creeps who are, in their words, a “tall, handsome, and fit professors,” who are looking for “friends, or lovers, depending on how we match. If this sounds interesting, please say hi and send pics.”

Shit yes, possibly-morbidly-obese head-breather who may or may not exist. I am dying to send you pix. There is nothing more appealing than the thought of my old math professor naked, jerking off to pictures of girls in hot topic wifebeaters.

So forgive me if I was a little apprehensive about going on a blind date with a fuzzy-looking picture from some OKStupid profile with a guy who lists Tool as one of his favorite bands. Ok, more than apprehensive. I was ready to haul out my can of mace and burn that potential rapist’s eyes into dripping Jackson Pollock splatters against the wall.

But.

There are a lot things that I consider to be redeeming qualities. Especially after two years of singledom. I’ve pretty much narrowed it down to two things: having a sense of humor, and having a penis. Low standards, you say? You think I left out a couple things? How about not being gay? How about actually wanting to be in a relationship?

Fuck it.

He picked me up after work on Friday night with some amorphous plan to go see a show in New Hampshire. For most people, this would have been a red flag. But really, I was too busy thinking “he has a car!!” to be thinking “there are a lot of forests in New Hampshire” or “I could potentially be sold into white slavery” or even “New Hampshire is far away and boring.”

It had all the hallmarks of being a disaster. First off, we arrived too late to see the band we were there to see.

maintain that inorganic, poisonous fluoride can turn the trick? WHO? The answer to this question is not really WHO, but rather WHY? We have plenty of answers, but none of them tie in even remotely with Lincoln's idea of a "Government, of the people, by the people, and for the people." I am not a professional chemist, but I am a professional thinker and believer. Since we must believe someone, I prefer to accept the authority of men whose believed thoughts agree with the ideas I obtained by personal knowledge. In this connection, I believe the statement of Charles Brush, M.D., of Cambridge, Massachusetts, who says: "Sodium fluoride is an inorganic, protoplasmic poison, for which no true medical acceptance has ever been expressed." A poison is an element that cannot be useful to the human organism, but its essen-

Second off, the minute we entered the venue (portentously named “The Sad Café”) we slowly became aware that we had apparently entered a time portal back to 2001, in some bizarro universe where everyone was at a Junior High dance dressed like they stumbled out of some bathroom stall at a tween-themed Cobrasnake party. No one there was over the age of 18, and there were a lot of newly-grown boobies proudly falling out of neon band shirts. And boys—Pete Wentz called. He wants his hair back. Actually wait—he doesn’t. You can keep it.

It was hilarious in the best way possible. Because what better way is there to bond with someone than to utterly verbally destroy other people—especially 13 year old boys dressed in their sister’s jeans? Especially when they duck out to sneak a cigarette (ah, rebellion) and then hastily dump it and pop some tic-tacs because their mom is there to pick them up. Ok, I know it’s hard to be a tween, and these kids are probably the coolest bunch in New Hampshire (at least the coolest bunch in The Sad Café). And I bet if I was a tween I would think they had reached heart-breakingly unattainable heights of cool. Especially their hair.

But I’m not young anymore, and thank god for that. My first date and I laughed our asses off for a good 45 minutes at the Sad Café, and then went back to his place to play Sonic the Hedgehog on his Sega Genesis.

The date was clearly a stunning success, and we’re now a genuine couple. So I guess not all the people you meet off the internet are serial killers. Now, if you’ll excuse me, I have to go return some videotapes.

tially destructive. Fluoride satisfies this definition completely. Even fluorine, in nature, is harmful to the body of a human or an animal, yet this substance gave the commercial chemists their sophistic argument. But Fluoride, the raw chemical, is from ten to fifty times as harmful. In nature, fluorine is never alone, but always in combination with calcium, like a policeman, holding a murderer's hands behind him. However, the water poisoners still persist in injecting one part per million of fluoride, which is about the percentage found in nature. This means that they put in artificially, from ten to fifty times as much as the natural incidence. Also, in most instances, they inject it directly into the water mains, for there is no reservoirs, which makes it easily possible for a consumer to draw out a concentrated dose! This does not give the victim even a sporting chance! In cities where Fluoridators are clever enough to cover their villainy, they warn those with kidney of liver disorders, heart ailments, nervous trouble, or who have ever had polio, NOT to drink the stuff. Sensing the danger of damage suits, they shrewdly disclaim responsibility. This is an open admission that the material is POISON, and will show up immediately in those of weak constitution. Second Allegation: In small amounts fluoride is not poisonous. This statement will not pass through a logical mind. In small amounts it is still a small amount of poison. And it is the kind of poison which remains in the body. This small amount does a small amount of damage, which the system can tolerate for a time. But continued for long, even the victim realizes there is trouble. You cannot frown in a drop of water, but a drop is just as much watery as the ocean! ## SOCIETY CONCLUDES: PHYSICISTS ARE A BURDEN

CAMBRIDGE - The American Physical Society released Monday the results of their survey on the nation's opinion of the physical sciences. The statistics are unmistakable: 99% of the population concluded that physicists are a burden.

Those who participated in the survey include local stock broker Alan Wilson, who reported Monday that he will never again watch Back to the Future with physicist friend.

"He sucked all the fun out of it," said Wilson. "He kept on talking about how time travel is impossible because it implies the existence of tachyons which would violate causality according to general relativity."

This was Wilson's fifth attempt to socialize with Sanberg, a particle physicist at Lawrence Berkeley National Lab. Their previous attempts to peacefully watch Roadrunner cartoons, Sky Captain and the World of Tomorrow, and Triple X ended in similar failures, as Sandberg sabotaged the evening with discussions of energy conservation, the anachronism of lasers in the 1930s, and the impossibility of see-through binoculars able to differentiate between various layers of female flesh and clothing, respectively.

"It just wasn't the same anymore after he noted that a bra and a shirt have similar responses to electromagnetic waves," added Wilson, remembering the Triple X incident when Sanberg explained that even if the binoculars were receptive to the wide range of wavelengths necessary to see through both walls and panties, they would not be able to select between layers of the same material.

Others surveyed include Christina Achen, mother of 14-year-old son Tom, who expressed concern for her son's health after noticing Tom's behavioral changes within the first weeks of his physics course at Washington High School.

"Little Tommy used to love skateboarding," said Achen. "I would spend hours watching him attempt all kinds of stunts. Sure, the occasional broken arm, fractured leg, shattered wrist, cracked ribs, and concussion were part of the lifestyle, but his sweet, angelic, toothless smile always warmed my heart."

Eschaton Immanitized

CAMBRIDGE - The Antichrist's deception begins to take shape in the world as the claims are made to realize within history the messianic hope that can only be realized beyond history through eschatological judgment. Wear a hat.

"Ever since Mr. Robertson showed us conservation of linear momentum, I don't know...I ...I just don't think I should be participating in any more inelastic collisions, you know?" responded Tom when asked the reason for his sudden change.

Recognizing the concerns of Achen and other parents, Washington High School will replace its physics course with new curriculum entitled Evolution as a Conspiracy Theory, effective September 2008.

Apparently, physicists are not only a contemporary burden, but have been a nuisance throughout the history of mankind, the most infamous of which include Galileo, whose heliocentric heresies caused widespread mutiny and death.

“It is a fact of history that physicists have always gone out of their way to destroy cherished beliefs,” said Dr. Ida Klosinski, professor of anthropology at Stanford University. “Civilizations spend centuries trying to unite under a common religion or belief, but each time the physicists come along and shatter a millennium of hard work. Here at Stanford we have a word for people like that: meanies.”

NEWS IN BRIEF

Obama Starts Own 24-hour TV Channel

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Frustrated that his daily TV interviews, webcasts, press conferences, radio talks and Stevie Wonder concerts were not getting his agenda “enough play,” President Obama today decided to start his own TV channel that would be dedicated to his administration’s efforts to revive America.

Featured shows include (Presidential) Seal or No Seal, Desperate Republicans, Barry the Deficit Slayer and America’s Idol.

Dr. Klosinski noted the physicist’s stubborn unwillingness to cooperate or negotiate, despite religion’s attempts to assimilate physics into our everyday lives. She then mentioned examples of bad sportsmanship within the physical sciences, which include criticizing Buddhists who distort the many-worlds interpretation of quantum mechanics to support their belief and denouncing the film What the Bleep do we Know? for misrepresenting wavefunction collapse.

“Frankly, I’d take religion over science any day,” said Bill Wordsworth, a local bartender who also participated in the APS survey. “I mean, with science, you can’t directly perceive the topology of the universe, and we only know of cosmic inflation through indirect evidence. At least the concept of a God that is both Jesus and the Holy Spirit everywhere, all at once, and sometimes in the form of wine and bread is tangible and observable.”

Wordsworth stated that physicists have been applying the scientific method in all the wrong places. As a result, science has repeatedly failed to prove the existence of a giant, elderly, European man with a flowing white beard somewhere out there in space, and NASA has yet to find biblical passages dictated in a powerful, masculine voice within frequencies of cosmic microwave background radiation.

The national agreement on the state of the physical sciences has elicited attention from President Bush.

“Physicists are terrorists,” said Bush. “They are a threat to good old American traditions like UFO sightings.

For too long, we have overlooked their un-American use of foreign, Greek letters to represent various abstract concepts. We must unite and go on a crusade to stop all terrorism, including those that challenge our precious dreams of perpetual motion machines.”

Bush then outlined his plan to relocate all physicists in the nation to internment camps, where they will receive moldy food, dirty water, and a cruelly low supply of scratch paper.

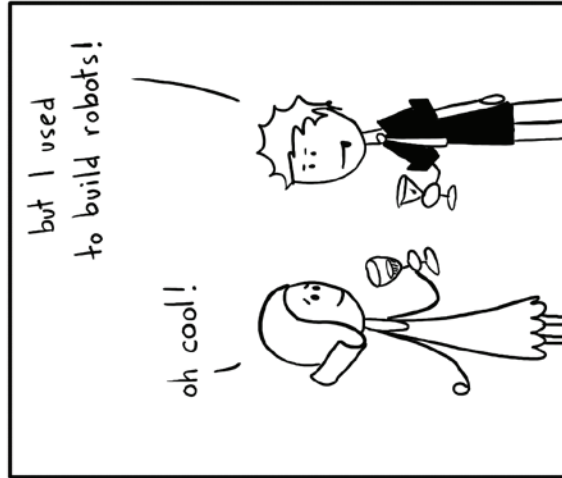

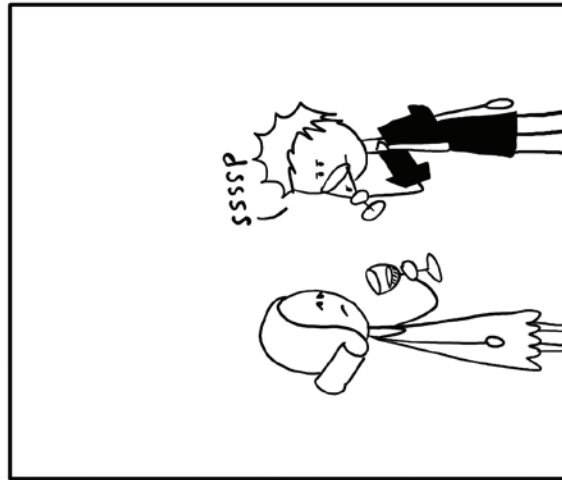

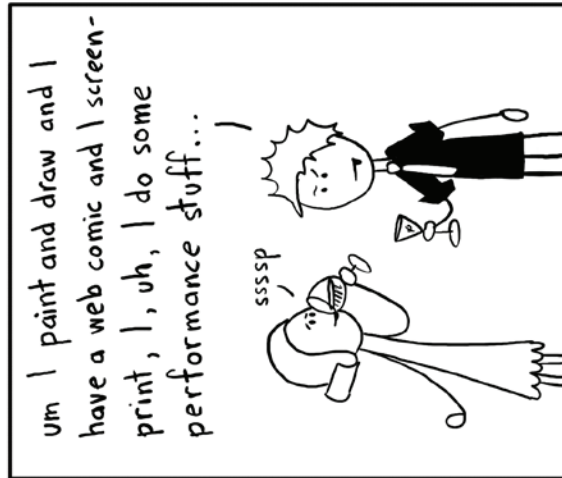

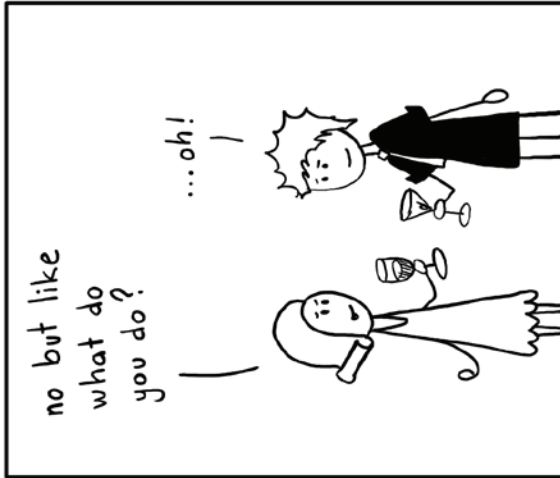

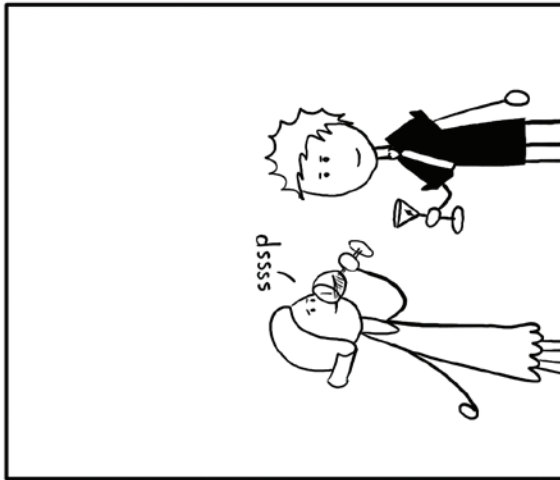

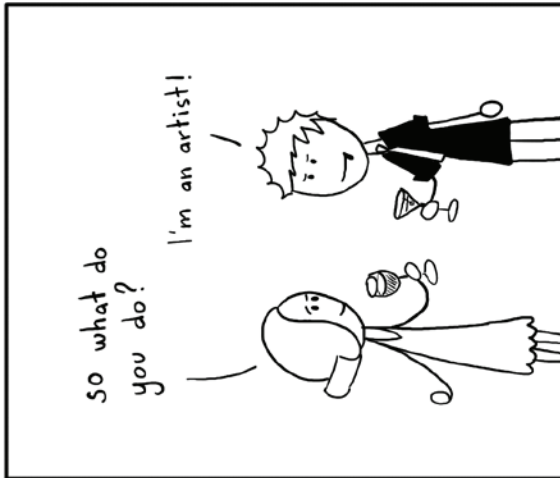

These actions, however, may be too late, for many cherished ideals have already been debunked by proponents of the physical sciences.

“Life was way easier when the world was flat,” says Wordsworth. “But thanks to those string theory jerks, the world may now be the compactification of a 10-dimensional Calabi-Yau manifold shaped like an octopus.”

“Physicists- they’re just a bunch of no-good trouble makers,” he added.

narians are humane enough, being also good business men, to warn farmers that SODIUM FLUORIDE will cause animal abortion, and even death. Are Medical Doctors equally considerate of pregnant women and sick people? So far as I am able to learn, the A.M.A. Has given no such instructions! CHEMISTRY OF FLUORIDE Dictionary Definition: "Fluoride: an element of the chlorine family isolated as a pungent, corrosive, pale greenish yellow gas. It combines with every element except oxygen." It is the most powerfully reactive element known. It decomposes all organic solvents with violence, and also decomposes water. The vapor of fluoride, even when highly diluted, is extremely injurious to the respiratory tract. (The man who puts the stuff in the hopper of the stainless steel fluoridating machine must wear a mask, rubber gloves, and boots.) It is far worse than arsenic to the body. Notwithstanding the fact that fluorine is found in the teeth, bones, and most tissues, it is not a normal or necessary element of the human body. It exists in the body as an invading POISON, and its presence in any amount is detrimental to the economy of the body as a whole, and certain tissues in particular. Nerves primarily suffer. POLITICAL ASPECTS: Sodium Fluoride in the water supply is used in Communist countries to keep people in subjection. It attacks the nervous system, producing a dullness of mind, and a weird sense of weariness. It has been used in asylums to keep patients quiet, and in circuses to keep beasts tame. Years ago it was used to cause ABORTION. It would not only prevent cavities in the teeth of children; it would prevent children completely! J. EDGAR HOOVER, chief of the FBI, in a nation-wide statement against possible sabotage, warned us of the "Poisoning of water supplies." He no doubt referred to men who were traitors, who would furnish their own poison, and dump it into reservoirs. Adoption of fluoridation by any community would provide our enemies with a perfect weapon. A turn of a valve, and the city is at their mercy. Fantastic? It is happening all over the world, but appears to be most common in America. Why should Communists spend millions of men and billions in money to conquer us, if they can persuade us to commit suicide? The men who push this cruel practice may not be themselves Communists, but what is the difference if they accomplish the same thing? Communists at least admit that they are trying to wreck our once great nation. VIEWPOINT OF THE PLUMBER: "Fluoride combines with every element except oxygen." Definition. What about soft metals, lead and copper, that compose much of the plumbing systems, heating pipes, water heaters, and radiators embedded in plaster, etc.? Lead and copper are also inorganic poisons, and are dissolved into the water by the fluoride. (Our bodies are full of pipes and they are even softer than copper!) SOCIALIZED MEDICINE: Only a few years ago American Doctors spent millions to defeat the socialized medicine law. How is it that today, they risk their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor to promote COMMUNIZED Medicine? If fluoride is medicine, we have mass-medication, compulsory at that. But since it is not medicine, but poison, what else have we but mass poisoning? And promoted by the guardians of our health! To me the whole procedure has all the elements of a nightmare in a madhouse! MORAL ASPECTS OF THE QUESTION: Apparently the law which punishes with ten years in prison and a fine, anyone who "puts poison into a well, spring, or reservoir of water" is still on the Federal, State, and City books. I have never heard of the law being repealed! What, then, has happened to law enforcement in America? Do we still have a government, -- or does the Government have us? By Divine and Civil law, the act of shortening human life by as little as ten minutes is classed as murder. Scientists worthy of the name insist that fluoridation of drinking water can shorten life by TEN YEARS!

Why are the vital statistics of Grand Rapids, Michigan, so carefully covered up? Why do newspapers refuse to print any material that carries any real argument against fluoridation? Do we not have freedom of the press? Is not the blackmail of editors immoral? In the days of law and order, Doctors did not medicate patients without their permission, real or presumed. Has that changed? According to the moral law, a Doctor may not experiment unnecessarily with a patient. It could be murder. A patient is not permitted to allow an experiment. This might be suicide. What has happened to our Constitution and Bill of Rights, which formerly allowed a man to decide for himself whether he should die by violence or naturally? Even Hamlet knew that the "Almighty has fixed His canon against self-slaughter!" ECONOMIC ASPECT OF FLUORIDATION (Even if it did the work!): It is commonly admitted that only one gallon of every hundred pumped is used as drinking water. But those who are supposed to benefit are children under ten years of age. That means, one gallon in every thousand is drunk by children. A few strategically placed decimal points show that $1.00 of every $1000.00 spent ever reaches a child! Last year, by my report, Washington D.C., spent $130,000.00 on Fluoridation. That means that less than $130.00 benefited children. What price Fluoridation! At that rate a sum equal to the public debt of 275 Billion would be required to PARTIALLY prevent children's cavities. Frankly, I object. That doesn't leave enough money to bury the rest of us. In conclusion, let me say that a 500 page book would not contain all the abjections in detail to this hideous attack upon the health of Americans, made by the . There is so little health left, due to the refining of foods, sterilizing and poisoning foods with sprays, that few Americans could pass a microscopic health examination. Rotten teeth are all the proof a good Doctor or Dentist needs of poor health. Until the American Medical Association moves against the processing of foods in earnest, M.D. Will signify Miserable Diet, the source of so much "unearned income." I know my words will cause enmity, -- they already have done so. But my concern is not primarily with men, but with God. I am aware that St. John the Baptist had his head cut off for less, -- but what wonderful company to be in, on JUDGMENT DAY!
