You hear a deep rumbling from underground and the sound of a massive explosion. Suddenly, a weak voice far above cries out, “—sha is a property of matterrrrrr. . .” Then you hear a thud, and then silence.

A giant whale materializes ten feet above Tech Square and promptly starts falling. With a squelch, you, along with everyone else in Tech Square, are smashed into a fine paste. . . well, except for the fact that you miraculously escaped at the last second. Go out of game for five minutes, then return at the lab of your choice.

Microphones, huh? Back in the future you had a pretty awesome band called “The Defiance of Science”, and you remember that the lead singer used something called an “electron microphone”. Shouldn’t be too hard to replicate, even with the primitive technology here. Go see the GMs to pick up a research notebook for the electron microphone.
